

Biosecurity Excellence

TMBC Launch and Symposium

Tauranga Yacht Club, October 16, 2018

This one-day event brings together Iwi, business and community leaders as well as environmental and biosecurity/biodiversity leaders. Guests will hear inspiring stories and case studies, be involved in interactive workshops and work with like-minded people in a creative, collaborative and innovative space. The aim is to form a leadership group to begin the journey to “building a biosecurity team of 4.7 million”.

There is no charge to attend this symposium. To register please email info@kvh.org.nz

8:45am	Registration opens
9:00am	Powhiri and launch Guest speakers - Biosecurity Minister Damien O'Connor, Biosecurity New Zealand head Roger Smith, Bay of Plenty Regional Council deputy chair Jane Nees Video – Ko Tātou This Is Us Welcome by TMBC co-chairs Graeme Marshall and Carlton Bidois
9:50am	Light morning tea
10:15am – 12.30pm	Speakers Caine Taiaha – Iwi research and perspective John Walsh – ‘Building the biosecurity team of 4.7 million’ Andrew Harrison – What is TMBC and what can we contribute? Kelvin Hastie – Building a community movement. David Teulon – How biosecurity science can help Chris Battershill - Regional biosecurity excellence stories, challenges and opportunities
12:40pm	Detector dog demonstration

1:00pm	Lunch
1:45pm	Speakers Chris Duggan and John Kean – B3 and the POT excellence programme and House of Science programme
2:30pm	Workshop sessions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Establishing a connection and a vision - Innovative biosecurity ideas
3:00pm	Afternoon Tea Break
3:15pm	Workshop sessions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Actions, opportunities, barriers, reflections
3:45pm	Speakers Wendy Rapana - Kaimai Mamaku Catchment Forum James Trevelyan – Business and biosecurity
4:25pm	Closing address and karakia by co-chair Carlton Bidois
4:30 – 5.30pm	Bar open for networking and light refreshments